

05/15/09 - Lovingly Crafted, Feature Rich Websites

A well crafted and designed website will not only look good to your visitors, but will rank well in searches on Google and other search engines.

My designs are tailored to your specific needs to ensure your site looks and works exactly how you want it to.

My portfolio includes simple static sites, blog based sites (with many added features to integrate your site with social networking services such as Facebook, MySpace and Twitter, and social bookmarking services such as Digg and Delicious), e-commerce sites, and database driven sites.

Where appropriate I will add an easy to use email subscription service to your site, so users can quickly subscribe to your mailing list. Not only does this mailing service allow you to quickly email your entire mailing list ? it will also email them all every time you add a new post to your site (or if you are adding posts frequently you can opt to send daily or weekly summaries of new posts instead).

Sites for customers who wish to post their own content to their website include a browser based administration panel for easy additions or changes to content whenever required. It's as easy as typing a letter.

If you don't already have a website, then no problem. I host hundreds of websites, and can provide everything you need to get started without you having to concern yourself at all about any of the technical issues.
