

06/17/09 - Makepak orders major upgrade to their website

Makepak International Trading Ltd, a machinery and parts supplier specialising in cigarette making and packing machinery has ordered a major upgrade to their website www.makepakinternational.com

Their current site, which I designed for Makepak several months ago, ranks very well on Google (frequently ranking number one for searches of items in their catalogue, and rarely outside the top five) and has brought in a lot of enquiries and new business for Makepak ? details of the site are available in my Portfolio ? Peter Clarke, Managing Director of Makepak stated "I am delighted with the number of enquiries the website has generated for us, and the orders generated have proved that the site works. The only problem is that the sheer volume of enquiries are time consuming to deal with, so we now need an improved admin panel to speed up quoting and give us more information on what we have quoted to whom".

The upgrade will comprise of improvements and new features to the website's admin panel, and a general makeover to the look and feel of the site. Completion of the project is expected to take around one to two months.
